

URGE CITY TO GIVE FIRE HERO OLD JOB

Thousand Sign Petition for Reinstatement of Tischer in Fire Department.

The petition for the reinstatement of Louis Tischer in his old Fire Department job in recognition of his heroic conduct as a volunteer rescuer at the Forsyth Street fire Sunday night has already been signed by more than 1,000 persons, and J. Barron, manufacturer, who started it, says he will soon have at least 2,000 more.

Tischer, who was dismissed some months ago for striking a superior officer, is said to have acted under extreme provocation. In any event he has been striving since to get his job back. Though he earns more now than he could hope to earn in the department, Acting Fire Chief Martin said the department could take no action before receiving the full report of the Forsyth Street fire, where Tischer saved eight lives. Commissioner of Accounts Hirschfeld is reported to have recommended that Tischer be either retried or reinstated at once.

FOUND "FIRE" IN WOOLWORTH BUILDING ALL IN CIGARETTE.

Four fire companies that dashed to the Woolworth Building last evening failed to find anything more exciting than a belated office worker lighting a cigarette. After half an hour's search the fire fighters departed. Investigation disclosed a defective firebox on the tenth floor. A watchman said he thought it was caused by lightning and that when he made his report it sounded the alarm. Firemen were inclined to doubt this.

Don't Have a Seam in the Linoleum on Your Floor

Don't have a crack that might start to wear, and never looks as well as a seamless floor. Use this room width linoleum—12 feet wide—a heavy printed cork linoleum that comes in so many effective patterns and colorings. It is priced very low, indeed, for it's marked "imperfect." Selected through the most scrupulous inspection, because of flaws, almost entirely in the print, affecting neither wear nor looks—just the price.
